

Gennady Kungurov was born in 1952, at the Sakhalin Island, in the village of Pitkiy.

He could not find his way in life at once. After school, he worked as a welder, adviser, then he spent some years in the Soviet Army. But if one has a talent, it will eventually find its way. And after leaving the Army, he graduated from the Khabarovsk Teachers' Institute (the Art and Graphics Department) and following that from the Moscow Polygraphy Institute (the Book Design Faculty) under the guidance of the great masters V.A. Gerasimov and A.V. Vasnetsov at the Graphics and Book Design Faculty.

He is the member of the Russian Artists' Union.
